CHICAGO, IL

TODAY THE U.S. LEFT faces daunting questions about the scale of the capitalist attacks and our capacity to fight back. How can we confront the mounting attacks on the public sector and social services, on immigrants and communities of color, and on earth's ecology? How can socialists begin to tie these issues together under an anti-capitalist banner? Can we extend the spaces we've been able to claim—whether the Chicago teachers' inspiring strike last fall, the recent fast food workers' walkouts or the environmental movement that has so far delayed approval of the Keystone XL pipeline? We need dialogue among the left to create effective strategies for resistance. Join activists and organizers in Chicago for three days of discussion, debate, as well as cultural and social events.

SESSIONS INCLUDE:

- Socialists and the U.S. Working Class
- Reform and Revolution
- Education and Capitalism
- Community Organizing and Working-Class Power
- Immigrant Rights Beyond Reform
